What do you want your students to learn from you?

“First, learn the importance of putting your heart into learning. This is Scriptural. Proverbs admonishes us to get wisdom and understanding. Second, enjoy learning. Engage the process with excitement, joy, even good humor.

Third, realize you are uniquely special, preparing to assume your place in the world, a mission especially prepared for you by God.

Fourth, have a compassionate heart for our hurting world and a contagious joyful attitude, worthy of ‘catching’ by all you meet.

Finally, see in me an educator who models the qualities mentioned above – God willing.”
